Former PM Kevin Rudd AC welcomed back to Burgmann

There was an excited buzz running through College in the middle of residents' final week of exams, as we waited for the arrival of a very special guest—former Prime Minister and Burgmann alum, His Excellency the Honourable Dr Kevin Michael Rudd AC, 23rd Ambassador of Australia to the United States (1976–1977).

His Excellency—or 'Kevin', as he asked to be called during his visit—toured College, reminisced about meeting his wife, entrepreneur and Burgmann alum Thérèse Rein (1976–1977), in the Dining Hall, took photos with residents, and delivered an inspiring speech to an audience of 150 residents.

“The future is there for us to carve out with our hands, with our hearts, and with our imagination. And being here at this place, at this College and this university, you're given every box of skills you will need to help carve out Australia's future, in whatever your field of expertise is.”

High Court Justice Robert Beech-Jones offers 'guidelines' for law students at Burgmann Law Dinner

Burgmann College was honoured to host Australian High Court Justice and Burgmann alum Robert Beech-Jones (1984–1986) for our Law Dinner on 16 May.

Before a crowd of guests that included notable alumni, distinguished friends of Burgmann College, and current Burgmann residents, The Honourable Justice Beech-Jones opened his remarks by promising to avoid providing residents with 'rules' to follow, but instead offered advice he would have given himself as a young law student.

“Being a lawyer is not important because of its status or salary. It's important because of the trust placed in you by your clients and the role lawyers play in society.”

– The Honourable Justice Beech-Jones

Acknowledgement of Country

Burgmann College acknowledges the Ngambri and Ngunnawal peoples as the traditional custodians of the land on which the College is situated. We pay our respects to Elders past and present and extend that respect to all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

Key Updates

Residents raise over $26,000 for charities during Family Weekend 2025

Burgmann Residents' Association (BRA) Vice Presidents Eloise Ridge and Billy Fuller led a team of dedicated resident leaders and volunteers to coordinate a fun Family Weekend over 9–11 May.

The event was a smashing success, with families travelling to Canberra to get a glimpse of their students' lives at Burgmann College and enjoy the weekend's capstone event, the Family Weekend Ball.

Featuring a three-course meal and live music, the Ball offered families and residents a chance to meet and mingle in a formal but lively setting.

The Ball also hosted the launch of Burgmann College's 2025 Appeal, Growing The Harriet Nixon Scholarship, and Charities Committee Chair Sophie Hill spearheaded a fundraising initiative for mental health research and services support for Amber's White Light (AWL).

“We were in awe of the generous donations [to AWL] from the extended Burgmann community.”

Celebrating Semester One: Acting Principal Stasakova's mid-year update

As winter settled over Canberra, the College entered the quiet focus that exam season brings. Semester 1 has been full and vibrant, and as it drew to a close, I found myself reflecting on the many highlights of the year so far.

The Burgmann Band's Big Night Out was a standout event, showcasing the remarkable talent within our community, as was the memorable Law Dinner with special guest and alumnus, the Honourable Justice Beech-Jones.

At this time of year, many residents made the most of the teaching break and headed off in search of warmer weather. Whether embarking on a 'Euro summer' adventure or returning home to recharge and reconnect with loved ones, I hope they enjoyed their travels and a well-earned rest.

2025 BRA President Charley Ellwood's mid-year report

From a fresh new logo for BRA to thrilling interhall competitions, Burgmann's first semester of 2025 was anything but quiet. In his mid-year report, 2025 BRA President Charley Ellwood reflects on a season of standout moments—from the creative chaos of Big Night Out, to a flurry of policy renewal and Family Weekend's fundraising success. Charley's recap of the year so far highlights the talent and community spirit we saw in Semester 1, and captures why Burgmann remains 'the place to be'.

In my first speech to residents on Open Day, I gave the advice of making the most of the opportunities and Burg, getting involved, and stepping out of your comfort zone. Our new residents have well and truly done that, and the community at Burg continues to thrive.

Alumni Profiles

Cathryn Lyall: Shaping the future of fintech and elevating women in finance

Alum Cathryn Lyall (1982–1984), a venture capital (VC) investor and non-executive director of various fintech initiatives, grew up along the eastern coast in Kiama, New South Wales.

The daughter of two educators, she attended agriculture-based Dapto High School and was heavily involved in the Australian Junior Slalom Canoeing team.

She enrolled in the Australian National University at 17 and started her academic career in Economics until finally settling on an Arts degree with majors in Political Science and English.

'After graduation', said Cathryn, 'I was accepted into DFAT to go into Foreign Affairs. However, before stepping into the role at DFAT, I decided to take a year off for travel.'

'I worked on Hayman Island, travelled around Australia and overseas, and came back to Sydney, where [my then-boyfriend] was working in Financial Markets. I was going to waitress for the final few months, but he suggested I get a job as a Futures Broker, so we would both be working in capital markets.

'He took me to a popular bar for capital markets traders and bankers in the Sydney CBD on Thursday night, and by 10pm I had a job starting on Monday. The company was Allstate's Futures, which was one of the five official dealers in interest rates with the Reserve Bank at that time, and I was the newest trainee Client Advisor.

'But Monday was the 19th of October in 1987—the infamous Crash of '87.'

“ Follow your heart. If you are passionate about something, it's not work, it's a purpose. But always take time to step back and assess: Do I have balance in my life? ”

Dr Peter Graves keeps the Griffins' spirit alive in Canberra

This autumn, we were delighted to welcome Dr Peter Graves (1972–1974) back to College for tea and warm scones; the perfect setting to reminisce about his Burgmann days and hear about life in retirement, where he's kept wonderfully busy.

Until recently, Peter served as Chair of the Canberra Chapter of the Walter Burley Griffin Society, an organisation devoted to honouring the lives and legacy of architects Walter Burley Griffin and Marion Mahony Griffin. Walter won the 1912 international competition to design what would become Canberra, and his wife Marion Mahoney Griffin was a celebrated and visionary architect in her own right.

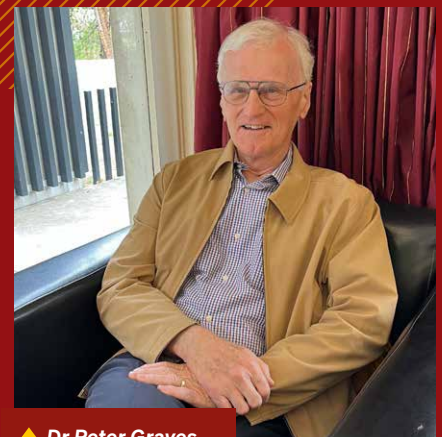

Passionate about the Griffins' enduring influence and Walter's original vision for the nation's capital, Dr Graves encourages anyone interested in the Griffins' remarkable story to visit griffinsociety.org or explore the Griffin Trail, which you can find at the National Capital

Authority's desk at Regatta Point, to rediscover their architectural legacy throughout Canberra.

In his final years, Walter found what he considered to be his 'spiritual home' in Lucknow in India's State of Uttar Pradesh.

Peter was pleased to have recently arranged for a passionate Lucknow local, Prateek Hira, to maintain the previously neglected gravesite into the future. The headstone now has additional signage explaining who Walter was and how he came to die in Lucknow in 1937, with his wife Marion by his side.

Regarding his time at College, Peter said:

▲ Dr Peter Graves.

'Being at Burgmann in its early years was a wonderful experience. I made life-long friends and even enjoyed the potato gems in the dining room. I still feel connected after 50 years.'

Thank you, Peter, for your ongoing connection with Burgmann College. It was wonderful to catch up and hear your news.

Burgmann Residents Association unveils updated panther logo

Earlier this year, the Burgmann Residents Association (BRA) Committee updated its design materials, and asked resident and Bachelor of Design student Charlotte Wallace to refresh BRA's black panther logo.

Charlotte's design retains key elements of the original logo—the panther, the shield, and the colour palette—to honour the association's history, with thoughtful updates to reflect and affirm BRA's modern progressive and inclusive values.

The original logo depicted the panther facing backward, which resulted in a static impression. 'In the redesign, I aimed to create a sense of unity and movement by repositioning the panther to face forward, symbolising progress and a future-focused outlook', explained Charlotte. 'The panther's head now emerges from an open shield, adding depth, dynamics, and a three-dimensional feel.'

Charlotte also incorporated the flame motif from Burgmann's official logo onto the panther's cheek. 'This small but meaningful detail serves as a visual link between BRA and the broader Burgmann community', explained Charlotte.

The new logo presents a refreshed, cohesive identity that bridges tradition with contemporary values.

'It was an honour to contribute to the visual identity of the Burgmann

BURGMANN

Residents Association

Residents Association', said Charlotte. 'The project challenged me to thoughtfully balance tradition with modern design, resulting in something that reflects the community I'm proud to be part of.'

Burgmann leaders' new dogs bring joy and paw-sitivity to campus life

This year, we were excited to welcome two new members to the Burgmann community, Ben and Ernie!

Ben is a Border Collie/Saluki cross living with Acting Principal Taryn Stasakova in the Village, and Ernest (Ernie) is an Australian Shepherd who lives with Acting Deputy Principal Monte Nathan in the Homer Wing.

These two adorable dogs were an instant hit with residents and staff, bringing smiles and a sense of home to campus. Recesses love taking the dogs for a walk or play, and staff enjoy the short breaks to offer these furry office visitors pats and tummy rubs.

Ben and Ernie even appeared in the College's Mid-Year Survey, with multiple resident respondents stating that Ben and Ernie's presence on campus has had a positive impact on resident well-being during the Semester.

Burgmann has a cherished history of dogs on campus, and we're glad that Ben and Ernie are continuing this beloved tradition!

Memories of Burgmann

Then and Now: The Hon Justice Lea Armstrong and Barry Jenkins

They met at Burgmann in the '80s, and they're still going strong.

The Hon Justice Lea Armstrong (1983–1985) and Barry Jenkins (1981–1985, 1989–1991) first met as residents of Burgmann College in the 1980s. During their time at College, a friendship grew into a lifelong partnership, and a deep, ongoing connection to the Burgmann community.

They joined us for the 2025 Sydney Alumni Get-Together earlier this year, and returned to College for our 2025 Law Dinner, which featured fellow Burgmann alum the Hon Justice Robert Beech-Jones (1984–1986) of the High Court of Australia.

We're delighted to share some wonderful throwback photos from Barry and Lea's Burgmann days, alongside more recent ones that celebrate how the relationships formed here can last a lifetime.

News from alumni around the world

Rob de Fégely AM (1977–1978)

Rob worked in operations developing softwood plantations in southern NSW before doing a Masters in the UK and becoming a forestry consultant, working all over Australia, New Zealand and Asia. He currently serves as the Chair the Board of Sustainable Timber Tasmania, and as a Director of Forestry Corporation of NSW, and as a Board member of the Bega Circular Economy (Regional Circularity Co-operative Ltd) initiative led by Bega Cheese. He runs a small forest and farm with his wife Sarah near Pambula.

Oliver 'Ollie' George-Brown (2016–2018)

A former Burgmann Sports Rep (2017) and BRA President (2018), Ollie is now completing a PhD in Integrated Composition, Improvisation & Technology at the University of California, Irvine. His creative work blends new media performance, acoustic ecology, and site-specific art, and recently he performed his project Xylocyclos at New Interfaces for Musical Expression (NIME) 2025. The performance used foraged timber interfaces from Galambary, or Black Mountain, on Ngannawal country.

Reflecting on his time at College, Ollie said, 'I found the College to be an amazing springboard into other opportunities. I'd encourage ressites to push themselves beyond their program and their regular College life, and to get involved both at College and beyond, since ANU offers such a huge range of students and student activities.'

'I tried to take one class outside my department every semester as a way of meeting new faces and ideas, and I have carried that through to my graduate studies. Even as a grad student, I try to enrol in one course each semester in a totally different department as a way of meeting new faces and hearing new ideas. Even when I'm totally out of my depth, it forces me to think in different and unexpected ways.'
